SCIPIO AFRICANUS MAJOR

Publius Cornelius Scipio, (sometimes called Africanus Major) was one of the greatest of Roman generals. While very young, he was placed in command of the Roman forces in Spain. He destroyed the power of the Carthaginians and made the whole of Spain a Roman province. He invaded Africa and faced the recall of Hannibal. By defeating the the Carthaginian forces he maintained Rome's supremacy in Africa. Charges being brought against him, (after Zama) by his eloquence in recounting what he had done for Rome, swayed popular feeling in his favor, so that his trial was abandoned. After this, he retired from public life.
